

I support interoperability for VRS. There should not be any equipment or access restrictions just because a company gives away equipment with stipulations such as informed consent. "Informed consent" is not the usual business practice in the telecommunications world. In fact, this goes against the ADA's intent on achieving functionally equivalent telecommunications relay services. Please change the rules to make VRS universally accessible to everyone regardless of type of equipment used.